

The formula for failure and success

A few simple disciplines practiced every day....

by Jim Rohn

plus AUDIO and ATTACHMENT 1125 words | 5 pages

We don't know if history will include Jim Rohn as one of the great philosophers, along with Descartes, Hegel, Kant, Nietzsche, Locke, Hume, Plato, and Socrates. But tens-of-thousands of people alive and networking today will and do. The article you're about to read is both classic Rohn and a classic of success literature. It is one of those bits of sage advice (and Jim Rohn is a master of giving great advice) you can read at least once a month, every month, for the rest of your life and truly be a more and better person for doing so. The formula works and always will- for or against you. That choice, Jim points out, is yours.

Failure is not a single, cataclysmic event. We do not fail overnight. Failure is the inevitable result of an accumulation of poor thinking and poor choices. To put it more simply, failure is nothing more than a few errors in judgment repeated every day.

Now why would someone make an error in judgment and then be so foolish as to repeat it every day? The answer is, because he or she does not think that it matters.

On their own, our daily acts do not seem that important. A minor oversight, a poor decision, or a wasted hour generally doesn't result in an instant and measurable impact. More often than not, we escape from any immediate consequences of our deeds.

If we have not bothered to read a single book in the past 90 days, this lack of discipline does not seem to have any immediate impact on our lives. And since nothing drastic happened to us after the first ninety days, we repeat this error in judgment for another ninety days, and on and on it goes. Why?

Because it doesn't seem to matter. And herein lies the great danger. Far worse than not reading the books is not even realizing that it matters!

Those who eat too many of the wrong foods are contributing to a future health problem, but the joy of the moment overshadows the consequence of the future. It does not seem to matter. Those who smoke too much or drink too much go on making these poor choices year after year after year... because it doesn't seem to matter. But the pain and regret of these errors in judgment have only been delayed for a future time. Consequences are seldom instant; instead, they accumulate until the inevitable day of reckoning finally arrives and the price must be paid for our poor choices - choices that didn't seem to matter.

Failure's most dangerous attribute is its subtlety. In the short term those little errors don't seem to make any difference. We do not seem to be failing. In fact, sometimes these accumulated errors in judgment occur throughout a period of great joy and prosperity in our lives. Since nothing terrible happens to us, since there are no instant consequences to capture our attention, we simply drift from one day to the next, repeating the errors, thinking the wrong thoughts, listening to the wrong voices and making the wrong choices. The sky did not fall in on us yesterday; therefore the act was probably harmless. Since it seemed to have no measurable consequence, it is probably safe to repeat. We must become better educated than that!

If at the end of the day when we made our first error in judgment the sky had fallen in on us, we undoubtedly would have taken immediate steps to ensure that the act would never be repeated again. Like the child who places his hand on a hot burner despite his parents' warnings, we would have had an instantaneous experience accompanying our error in judgment.

Unfortunately, failure does not shout out its warnings as our parents once did. This is why it is imperative to refine our philosophy in order to be able to make better choices.

With a powerful, personal philosophy guiding our every step, we become more aware of our errors in judgment and more aware that each error really does matter.

Now here is the great news. Just like the formula for failure, the formula for success is easy to follow: its a few simple disciplines practiced every day.

Now here is an interesting question worth pondering: How can we change the errors in the formula for failure into the disciplines required in the formula for success? The answer is by making the future an important part of our current philosophy.

Both success and failure involve future consequences, namely the inevitable rewards or unavoidable regrets resulting from past activities. If this is true, why don't more people take time to ponder the future? The answer is simple: They are so caught up in the current moment that it doesn't seem to matter. The problems and the rewards of today are so absorbing to some human beings that they never pause long enough to think about tomorrow.

But what if we did develop a new discipline to take just a few minutes every day to look a little further down the road? We would then be able to foresee the impending consequences of our current conduct. Armed with that valuable information, we would be able to take the necessary action to change our errors into new success-oriented disciplines. In other words, by disciplining ourselves to see the future in advance, we would be able to change our thinking, amend our errors and develop new habits to replace the old.

One of the exciting things about the formula for success- a few simple disciplines practiced every day - is that the results are almost immediate.

As we voluntarily change daily errors into daily disciplines, we experience positive results in a very short period of time. When we change our diet, our health improves noticeably in just a few weeks. When we start exercising, we feel a new vitality almost immediately. When we begin reading, we experience a growing awareness and a new level of self-confidence. Whatever new discipline we begin to practice daily will produce exciting results that will drive us to become even better at developing new disciplines.

The real magic of new disciplines is that they will cause us to amend our thinking.

If we were to start today to read the books, keep a journal, attend the classes, listen more and observe more, then today would be the first day of a new life leading to a better future.

If we were to start today to try harder, and in every way make a conscious and consistent effort to change subtle and deadly errors into constructive and rewarding disciplines, we would never again settle for a life of existence - not once we have tasted the fruits of a life of substance!

Copyright © 1999, 2002, 2003, 2004 Jim Rohn International. All rights reserved worldwide.

Jim Rohn is considered to be "America's Foremost Business Philosopher". He's been delivering his life and work-changing seminars for over 39 years... addressed over 6,000 audiences and four million people worldwide... he's the recipient of the 1985 National Speakers Association CPAE Award... authored 17 different books, audio and video programs... and, Mr. Rohn is internationally hailed as one of the most influential thinkers of our time.

To subscribe to the FREE! Jim Rohn Weekly E-zine, use our affiliate link here: JimRohn.com and receive 20-60 percent off on all audios, books and tapes. Also, you can review the complete Jim Rohn archive of articles, vitamins for the mind, Q and A and more.

AUDIO
CLASSIC | PERSONAL GROWTH | PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

The Jim Rohn CD Sampler

A great introduction to Jim Rohn and his philosophy.
by Jim Rohn

The entire program is a little over one-hour long and contains the following 13 individual segments:

1. Turning Nothing Into Something
2. Meeting Mr. Schoaff
3. Sharing
4. Time Management
5. What Money Can Do
6. Being Fruitful
7. Unprecedented Opportunity
8. Deserve Verses Need
9. Words
10. Success is Everything
11. Grandkids Poem
12. Sowing and Reaping
13. The Four If's

Downloadable MP3

ATTACHMENT

CLASSIC | PERSONAL GROWTH | PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Mr. Shoaff's simple steps to success

These few uncommonly common strategies and ideas helped change my life, forever, for the better.

by Jim Rohn

Downloadable PDF

Success, Jim's mentor taught him, is not to be pursued. It's to be attracted. And you attract success by the person you become. Put your energy into becoming a better you, Jim says. The best you you can be.